Dr. A. H. Cook, wife and child, left Sunday for Corvallis, Pa., where he will again resume the practice of medicine. Dr. Cook came here from Cranston last August, but after a few months here he concluded that he could do better at his former location.

A delightful social event was the entertainment of about forty guests at lunch, by Mrs. J. W. Allen, Mrs. C. W. Peters and Mrs. J. H. Crockett, at the home of the former, Thursday afternoon from 1:30 to 4:30 o'clock. The rooms were beautifully decorated in red, white and blue, the color scheme being patriotic. The lady cards were representative of drums, and the favors were miniature U. S. flags. Delicious refreshments were served at 4 o'clock. The time sped too swiftly for the happy guests, each of whom will long remember the occasion with pleasure.

RELIGIOUS.

Southern Methodists have twelve orphan's homes, valued at $65,000, in the Tennessee mountains.

The Rev. Sam P. Jones will hold a revival meeting at Lexington in March.

The Scott-Winters Society, of which Dr. E. O. Guernsey is president, employed twenty-two workers at a cost of $1,980 last year in the Tennessee mountains.

The Rev. R. T. Bryan, who went from the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville a missionary to China, is building a college and also a theological seminary at Shanghai and wants American aid. It will be the first Baptist college in China.

BORN.

Saturday, January 20, to A. B. Burns and wife, a son.

Thursday, January 18, to Oscar Smelling and wife, a daughter.

DIED.

Joseph H. Richard died Friday night, January 19, at Danversville, at which town he was the oldest citizen. When the recent heavy snow came, Mr. Richard, who lived with his only surviving son and child, James Richard, noticed that the servants had not swept the snow from the porch at the Richard residence. Securing a broom, he looked on sweeping the snow away himself, and while doing this he fell and broke his thigh. He rapidly failed and death resulted. Funeral services were conducted at the residence Sunday afternoon, and the body interred in the Orangeville cemetery. Joseph H. Richard was born in this town July 4, 1845. He was a son of Duncan

There will be a Union Missionary Rally at the Methodist church Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. There will be the only services in town, and everybody is urged to be present to attend.

On their way to Iowa, Rev. and Mrs. M. P. Arnsamith were in a wreck on the Big Four express near Kanabek, Ill. Three passengers were seriously injured, but beyond a severe shaking up, Mr. and Mrs. Arnsamith escaped injury. A grocer's rail caused the wreck.

I am a candidate in the Tour-to-Europe contest, and would esteem it a great favor if my friends, who are going to subscribe for the Courier-Journal, or renew it, would cast their votes for me, and also leave the ballots out from the daily Courier-Journal. Respectfully,
FLORENCE KNIGHT.

The W. C. T. U. at Owingsville decided to raise funds sufficient to employ a detective whose duty will be to discover and report cases of intoxication and to ferret out when and where the liquor was obtained. It was also decided to open a reading room where the men can congregate at any time if suitably and where innocent games can be indulged in.

Last Saturday and Sunday were said to have been the warmest January days since 1890. Oystercakes were cast aside and fireides were left for the balmy atmosphere outside. The temperature was as high as 73 degrees. The mean temperature Monday was 60 degrees, but at night the mercury began to fall rapidly, and freezing was reached the next morning.

Dr. L. P. V. Williams, formerly cashier of the Lenora National Bank at Morehead, which suspended several weeks ago, will remove to Sharpsburg, Indiana, where he will practice medicine. Dr. Williams has been one of the most enterprising citizens of Morehead, and we hope that he will do well in his new home. He represented both and Owen counties in the last Constitutional Convention.

Miss Bess Rutherford, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Rutherford, of this town, is a candidate in the Tour-to-Europe contest instigated by the Louisville Courier-Journal. Her nomination appeared in Tuesday's paper. Other candidates

Mr. and Mrs. Peters, Mr. and Mrs. Cole, Bascom, Hon. and Mrs. Walter Shook, shall never forget my friends. I am now only a candidate for heaven and don't want an early election. With good wishes and kind regards, coupled with the hope that success will crown all your efforts,
I am, yours truly,
MORDECAI WILLIAMS.

Our Town Council.

The Town Council of Sharpsburg is composed entirely of Unitarian Baptists, all of whom are members of the same church. There was no delay about enforcing the Sunday laws after they were sworn in, and the Town Marshal was ordered to immediately see that the "idiot" was put down tight on every thing—Mayville Bulletin.

The only member of our Town Council who could possibly be considered a Hardshell Baptist is the Chairman, J. C. Nelson, whose paternal grandfather and both grandfathers were Hardshell, or Old School, Baptists. Yet Mr. Nelson is, like each of the other councilmen, a member of the Missionary Baptist church at this place.

Various have been the comments of the State press about our Town Council, but R. R. Perry, of the Winchester Sun Sentinel, himself a Baptist, caps the climax with the following which appeared in a recent issue of his paper:

A special from Sharpsburg says: "The new Town Council, which recently went into office and which is composed entirely of members of the Baptist church, has taken the Town Marshal to strictly enforce the Sunday-closing law. This was done today, and every business house, including barber shops, meat shops and restaurants, was tightly closed. Not even a cigar could be purchased. Hereafter, the stores and restaurants were permitted to keep open until 9 o'clock Sunday morning, and the barber shops and restaurants were allowed to do business all day on Sundays, but the new Council says the Sunday-closing law must be observed. A number of citizens are in an arms against the new order, but the Councilmen declare that they will remain firm."

This reminds me what a drunken fellow on the train said about Jellico. Jellico is in Tennessee and is part in Kentucky, and there are separate town governments. I asked him about the town and he answered: "Kentucky Jellico is all right; you can get any thing you want. But Tennessee is no good; a lot of fool Baptist have control, and you can't get any thing."

Why Buy McClure's?

McClure's Magazine is bought and read in houses, not because it is a magazine, but because it is the magazine. Why?

FIRST—THE PRICE. It costs but one dollar a year, or less than ten cents a number, for over thirteen hundred two-hundred pages of reading matter. This amounts in actual bulk to twenty or twenty-five books costing anywhere from a dollar to two dollars a volume.

SECOND—QUALITY. The reading matter is written by America's leading writers—the best short story writers, the best writers on timely articles, the best writers of important serials, such as Schurz's Reminiscences or Baker's Railroad articles.

THIRD—TIMELINESS. The reading matter in McClure's is not only good; it is not only entertaining, amusing, instructive and inspiring—it is also about the subjects in which you and all Americans are most interested at the time. No subjects in the next twelve months are going to be so important as the question of railroad rates and rebates and the question of life insurance. Both of these questions will be discussed by authorities in an impartial, careful, interesting way.

FOURTH—ITS CHARACTER. McClure's Magazine is not edited for children, but at the same time, there is never a line in it that any young girl might not read. Its advertising pages are as clean as its editorial pages.

You have few friends so true and faithful as your horse.

Sunday Eggs.
Paragraphs all over the country have poked fun at the little body of Kentucky women who last October announced that they would on Sunday would be devoted to foreign missions. Today the wisdom of the policy then adopted is vindicated, the religious fervor of the benighted beyond question, and also that of her liege lord, by the announcement made after
